

The Season's Quarrel

Illustrated and written By
Niharika Vasudevan

Introduction

Summer has come, everyone is really happy to welcome summer back after a long time, but the other seasons hated it, summer is the only season that is given lots of love. The other seasons got jealous and started to argue about summer's favouritism. Summer agreed to the conditions put down by the other seasons but it was a disastrous affair.

Chapter 1: Summer has come

It was finally that time of the year when summer came to visit the Earth. Everyone was really happy to see summer after such a long time and everyone was overjoyed but the other seasons were really jealous. One sunny morning when summer was resting under the beautiful flowering trees he saw snow fall.

Chapter 2: The Seasons are here.

'Snow fall where did this come from'? He said, to himself. 'Oh my!' 'now why is it raining'?. The strong wind were blowing, 'what's is going on'. Just as he was thinking about what was happening, he spotted a tornado of snow, wind and flowers. He ran towards it and what did he see?. The season summer burst out with anger, 'What have you done to my beautiful earth?'. We have come to discuss about sharing the season equally on Earth. But why? summer says.

Chapter 3: You want to change the season time

'The other seasons complained', every summer you get joy and happiness from the people, laughter, mango, watermelons, ice cream, pineapple and also you are the longest season. That's because I am your eldest brother' summer says, 'But I winter am the second eldest' winter says, 'I get hot chocolate and a fever. 'But you have Christmas' summer says. The quarrel among the seasons went for quite some time and summer said that we could share but only if we are kind and promise to take care of our responsibilities, so, winter came 18 days, monsoon came 10 days, spring came 15 days, sometimes they would change their days as they wanted. Except summer all were thinking only about themselves, this created a lot of chaos and confusion on Earth as people did not know when what season would come. This went on for some time, the summer season was very sad he went to the other seasons and bravely pointed out their mistakes and showed them the problems they were facing because of their unreasonable demands. All the seasons looked around and looking at the struggle of the people they realized their mistakes and decided to come at their own designated times. The seasons were back to normal and all the reasonable times.
