Chapter one- The Lost Ring

Once upon a time there lived a king in a fairy land. He had a magical ring that would teleport anyone to any place. One day the ring got misplaced when the king was sleeping. He had got a siren in his palace giving a message that the ring was stolen by an enemy of his friend – the king of dragons whose was Dragonaire.

He had become so worried that he became unconscious. Dragonaire was called immediately and requested to get it back for his friend. He took one of his finest dragons and searched in his enemy's kingdom-The kingdom of sorcerers. As he landed, he exclaimed "Oh my god this place is so dirty".

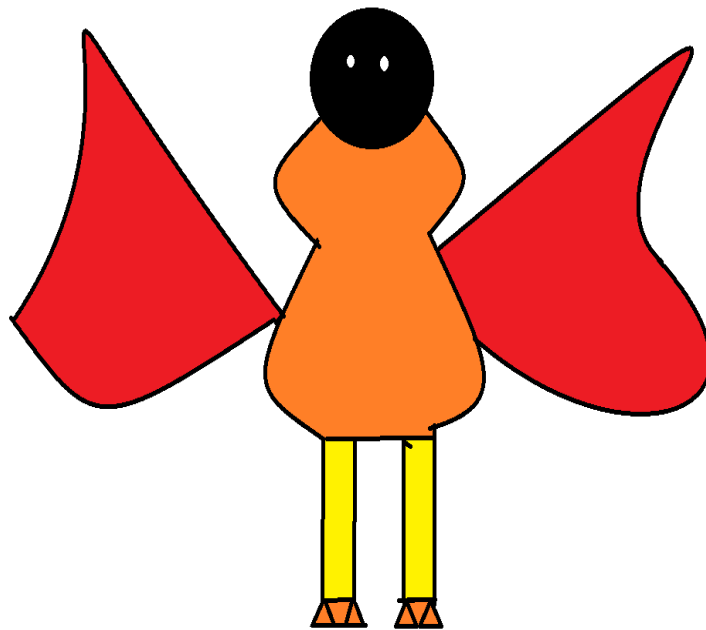

He saw the soldiers of the kingdom marching towards the royal palace. He thought what to do until an idea struck him. When his dragon asked him what the plan was, he answered, 'I can dress up as a soldier of the royal palace and pretend to clean the ring and after that I can steal the ring and jump from the window and you can fly up to me and we can fly back to the Fairy Land'.

Luckily a soldier was running to the palace until Dragonaire grabbed him and gave him a sedative liquid that could make anyone sleep for at least 2 months. Dragonaire wore the Soldier's cloths and went inside the palace. He asked the soldiers where the ring was kept. The soldier asked him "why do you want to know where is the ring I". "I want to clean the ring with my own hands". This seemed like a valid reason to the soldier but he was shocked.

So he answered in a shocked tone because everyone in the kingdom knew where the ring was kept "I can't believe it, were you just born yesterday, everyone knows that the King has kept the ring in the special secret room that belonged to him of course. He got to know what to do, he had to sneak into the room and pretend to clean the ring and steal it. He went to the room and opened the room and saw the ring, at first, he pretended to clean the ring.

After that when he was about to leave, the king of the sorcerers saw him and shouted "Hey what are you doing here". "Um I was just cleaning the ring your majesty", replied Dragonaire. "No need of doing that, get out from my secret room and get to work or else I will burn you alive", threatened the king. Now he had to leave and come up with another plan to steal the ring from the king of sorcerers.

Chapter.2-land of sorcerers

As Dragonaire was thinking what to do next he thought of his friend who was still lying unconscious he came with a plan. "Why don't I ask someone when the king comes to his secret room, and when he does not come to the room, I can steal the ring and go back to fairy land". Dragonaire began with his plan and asked the king's most trusted soldier, "Could you tell me when the king comes to his secret room.

The soldier replied shocked" I can't believe it, you're a soldier of the kingdom of sorcerer's and don't know when the king comes to his secret room, shame on you, anyway about your question the king comes to his secret room only on Monday and Saturday. Dragonaire got what to do next- he had to creep into the room on all days except Monday and Saturday.

The next day when it was a Monday,
Dragonaire spied on the king the whole day and when he saw the king approaching the room, he saw that the king used to go to the room only to see if the ring was safe.

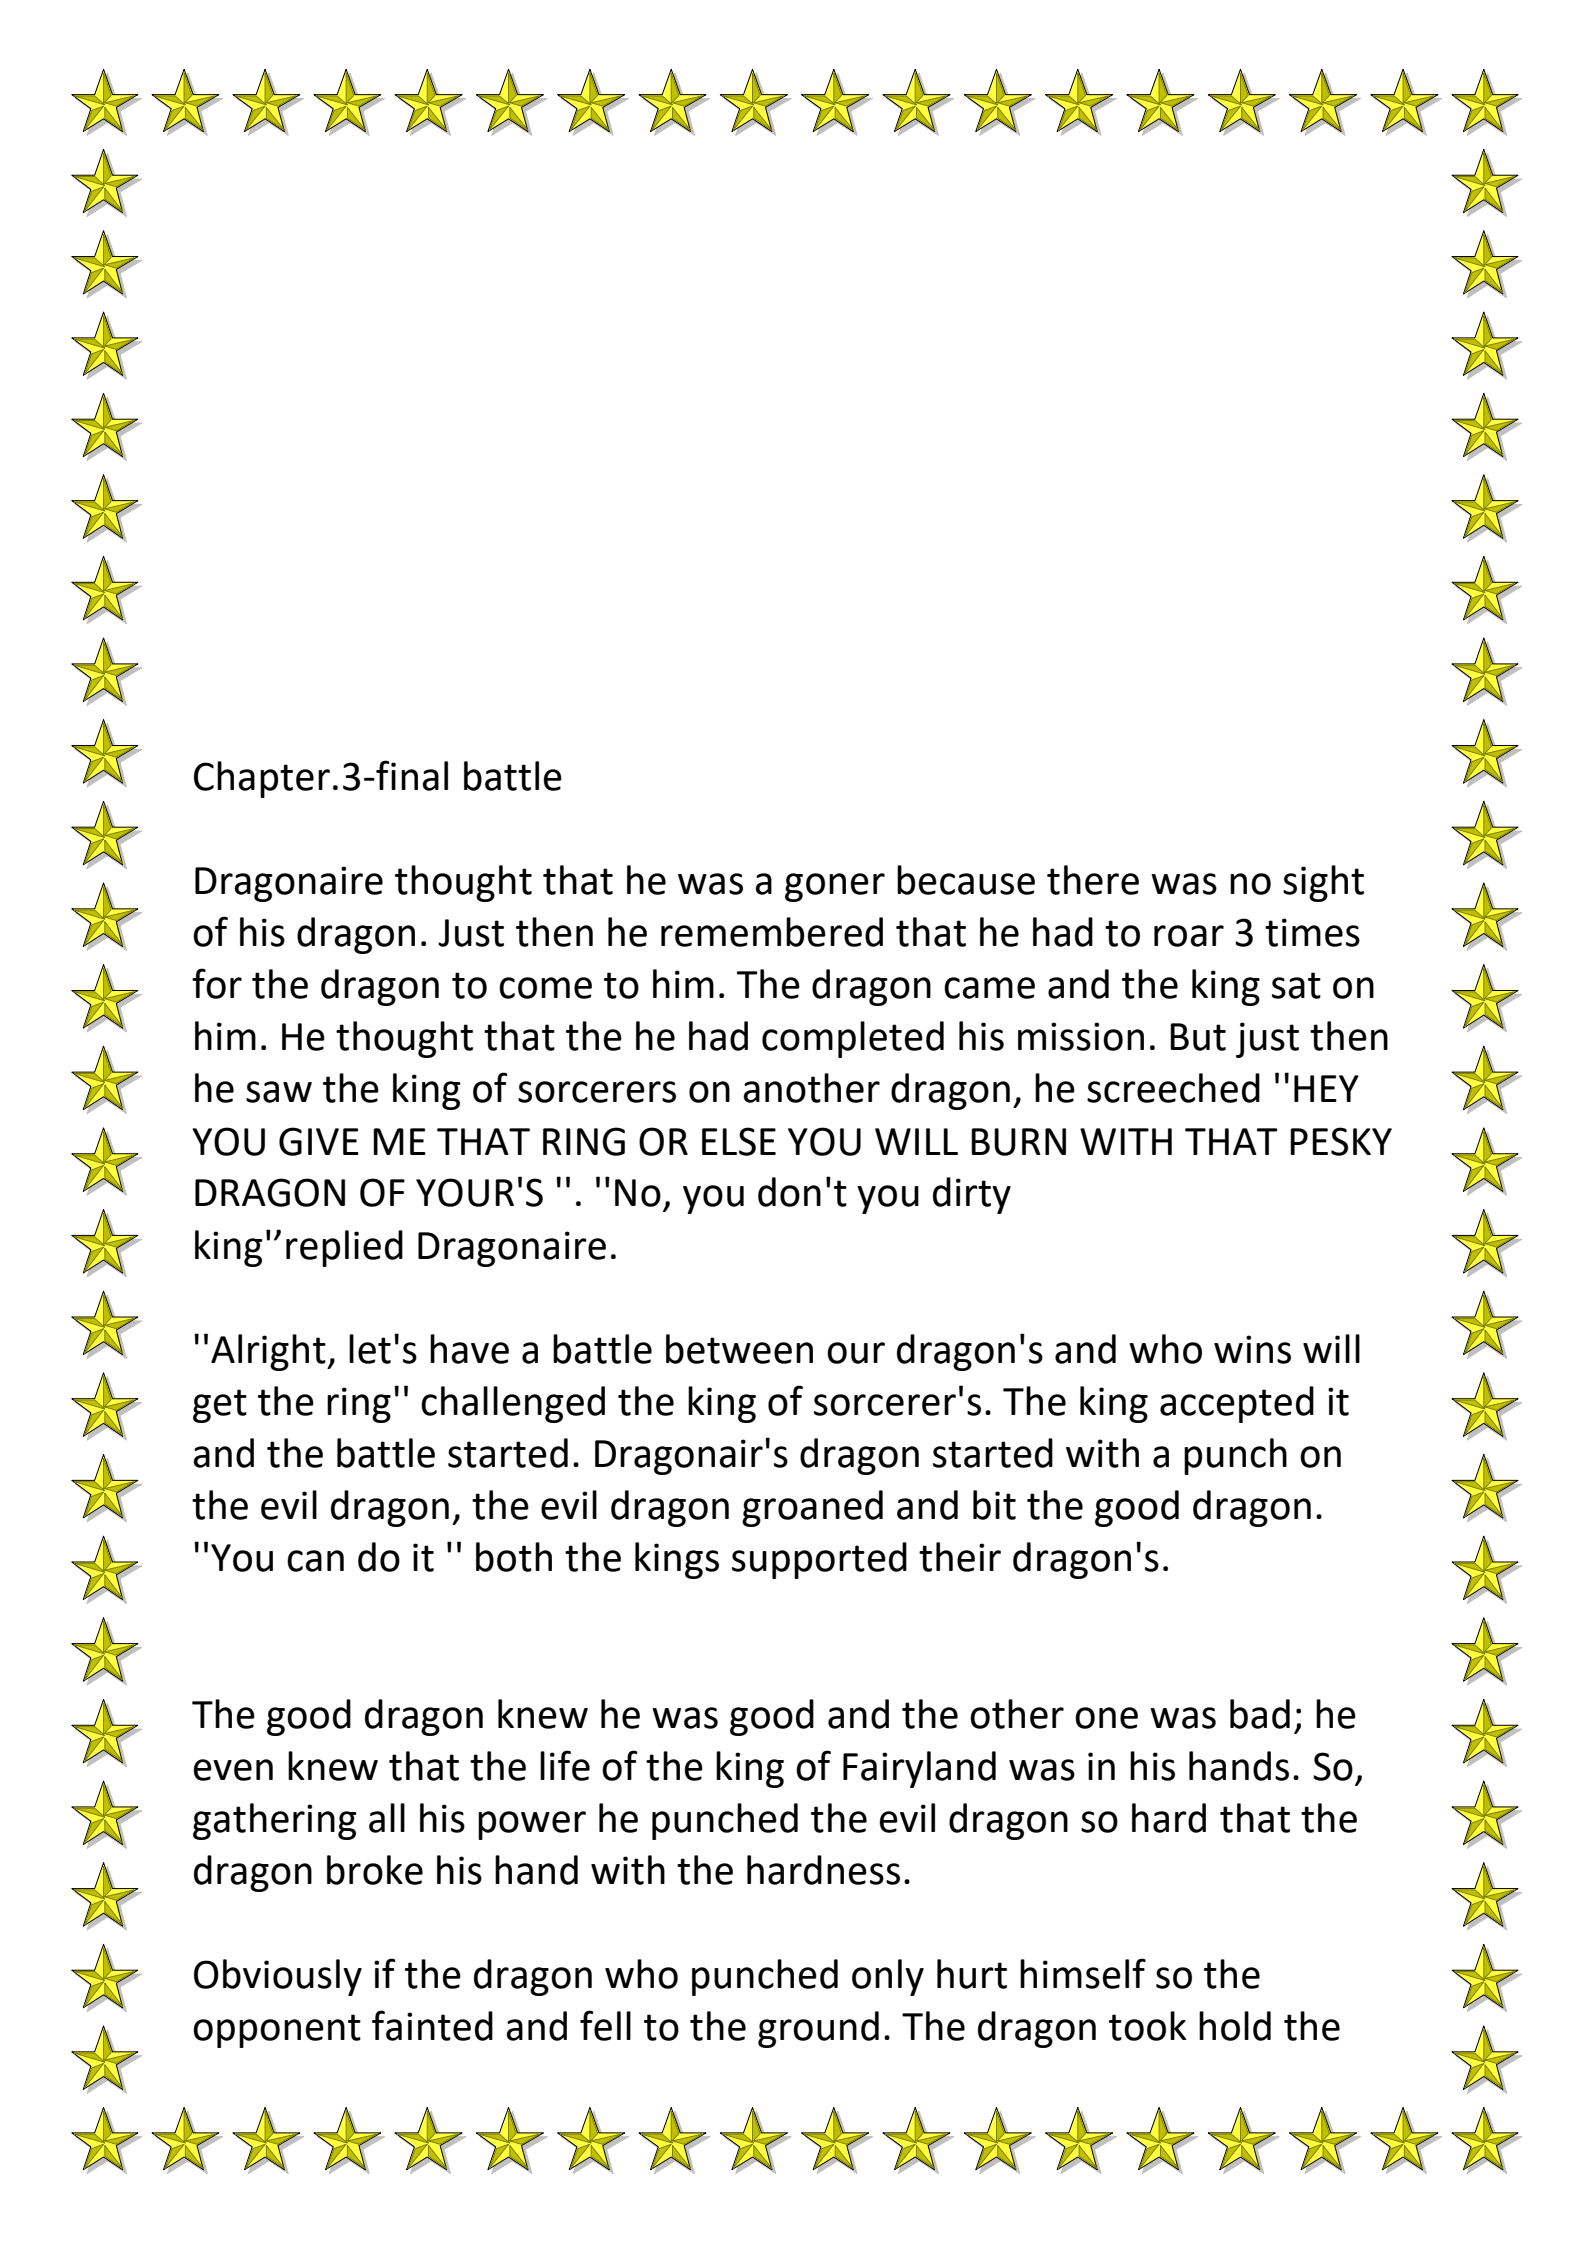

The king went back to his chambers and Dragonaire crept to his room. He saw that the ring was kept in a glass safe, and he had to find a way to crack the safe and get the ring.
He thought and thought what to do and in anger he just banged the safe, luckily no one heard the bang.

But as he banged the safe a touchscreen keypad appeared and he thought he had to put the password to open it. He thought and thought and tried tons of passwords he knew. Until he got to know that all the kings of the kingdom of sorcerer's would only put the password of the name of their worst enemies. And it was obvious that the king of the kingdom of sorcerer's worst enemy was Dragonaire, the king of the kingdom of dragons.

He entered his name in the safe keypad and the safe opened. As soon as he took the ring from the safe, he saw the king of sorcerer's fuming with anger. 'Well, well, well it looks that you're not a soldier of my kingdom. Who are you and why did you come to my kingdom? Dragonaire did not answer and jumped from the castle.

Chapter.3-final battle

Dragonaire thought that he was a goner because there was no sight of his dragon. Just then he remembered that he had to roar 3 times for the dragon to come to him. The dragon came and the king sat on him. He thought that the he had completed his mission. But just then he saw the king of sorcerers on another dragon, he screeched "HEY YOU GIVE ME THAT RING OR ELSE YOU WILL BURN WITH THAT PESKY DRAGON OF YOUR'S ". "No, you don't you dirty king"replied Dragonaire.

"Alright, let's have a battle between our dragon's and who wins will get the ring" challenged the king of sorcerer's. The king accepted it and the battle started. Dragonair's dragon started with a punch on the evil dragon, the evil dragon groaned and bit the good dragon. "You can do it " both the kings supported their dragon's.

The good dragon knew he was good and the other one was bad; he even knew that the life of the king of Fairyland was in his hands. So, gathering all his power he punched the evil dragon so hard that the dragon broke his hand with the hardness.

Obviously if the dragon who punched only hurt himself so the opponent fainted and fell to the ground. The dragon took hold the king of sorcerer's and through him out of the kingdom of sorcerers.

"Congratulations my dragon" exclaimed the king. Both of them went back to fairyland with happy faces.
