

The Thieves And The Well

The Thieves And The Well

Once when King Komal had gone to survey the jail, two burglars who were prisoners there, asked for his mercy. They told him that they were experts at burglary and could help the king in catching other thieves.

The king being a kind ruler asked his guards to release them but with a condition. He told the burglars that he would release them and appoint them as his spies only if they could break into his advisor Raman's house and steal valuables from there. The thieves agreed for the challenge.

That same night the two thieves went to Raman's house and hid behind some bushes. After dinner, when Raman came out for a stroll, he heard some rustling in the bushes. He at once perceived the existence of thieves in his garden.

After some time he went in and told his wife loudly that they have to be careful about their valuables as two thieves were on the run. He asked her to put all the gold and silver coins and jewellery in a trunk. The thieves overheard the conversation between Raman and his wife.

After some time, he carried the trunk to the well in the backyard of his house and threw it in the well. The thieves saw all of this. As soon as Raman went inside his house, the burglars came to the well and began drawing water out of it. They kept drawing water the entire night. Almost at dawn, they managed to pull out the trunk but were shocked to see stones in it. This is when Raman came out and thanked them for letting him sleep well at night and also for watering his plants. The two thieves understood that Raman had outsmarted them. They apologised to Raman and he let them go.

Moral

The moral of the story is one should avoid accepting false claims.

About my loving daughter Sargga....

Sargga....She is our first princess. The day she came to this wonderful world is 14th July 2011.

She likes art,painting,music and dance.Sargga loves to be with friends. She is very emotional and loves everyone. Sargga will put her effort for studies also. She is very playful, talkative and naughty too. She loves her baby sister very much. Sargga likes swimming, cycling and playing badminton.

Sargga is our world..Such a wonderful gift God has given to us..

