The narrative was told with a thoughtful narration that served as a reminder to everyone that living is more about accepting 'What is' than it is about 'What if.'

A elegant classical dance, an explosive boys' dance, and a heartfelt musical performance rounded off the story well. These components worked together to create a rich and unforgettable experience by bringing depth, emotion, and brightness. The assembly through dance, music, and theater, not only entertained but also gave a potent life lesson: sometimes letting go of one desire can lead to the discovery of a more satisfying one.

NPS Konnect

On 11th August, our alumna Anushka Ramakrishnan interacted with Grade 10 students in an engaging session on staying focused during their crucial academic year. Drawing from her own experience as a student of integrated coaching, she highlighted both its advantages and challenges. Anushka also offered a glimpse into her daily routine during those years and how she managed the stress and pressure that came with it. She stressed the importance of self-awareness—encouraging students to follow their own interests rather than succumbing to herd mentality.

During the Q&A, students asked thoughtful questions that helped them gain clarity and reflect on their choices, placing their own needs at the centre instead of external expectations. Anushka's candid insights and perspectives inspired students to take ownership of their decisions with confidence.

Community Service

On 12th August and 19th August students of Grade 10C and 10A respectively, visited the Little Sisters of the Poor Old-Age Home, where they were warmly welcomed by the sisters. Though the visit was brief, it left the students deeply touched.

Sister Josephine introduced them to the mission of the home and shared the inspiring story of Saint Jeanne Jugan, whose compassion during the French Revolution laid its foundation. The students learnt about the daily functioning of the home and toured its facilities, including the dining halls, craft room, infirmary, and physiotherapy centre. Meeting the residents was the highlight — they sang, danced, and even celebrated a birthday with one of them. The residents' cheerfulness and creativity left a lasting impression.

The home, which houses 110 residents, offers not just shelter but dignity, purpose, and joy. Witnessing the sisters' lifelong service and the residents' resilience reminded the students of the wisdom and warmth that elders bring. The experience reinforced their responsibility to care for their grandparents and show kindness to seniors in the community. The visit renewed their faith in humanity and left them grateful for the opportunity to connect, learn, and contribute.

Nadia Nadim: A Story of Courage

Some stories stay with us — not just because they are inspiring, but because they remind us what is possible... even when life gets hard.

One such story is that of Nadia Nadim.

She was just 11 years old when everything changed. Her father, a general in the Afghan army, was taken by the Taliban. Her family had to flee the country, hiding in the back of a truck. They eventually found safety in Denmark — a new country, a new language, and an uncertain future.

But Nadia didn't give up.

In Denmark, she discovered football — and something inside her lit up. She trained with discipline and passion. She played 98 matches for the Danish national team, and went on to score nearly 200 goals in her career. At the same time, she pursued a degree in medicine. Today, she's not just a football star — she's a reconstructive surgeon, helping others rebuild their lives. She speaks 11 languages and is recognized as one of the most influential women in international sports.

But what truly defines her... is her resilience — that quiet strength to keep going when everything seems lost.

Resilience doesn't mean you're always strong. It doesn't mean you never feel like giving up. It simply means... you try again — even when it's hard. You show up for that exam you're nervous about. You bounce back after a match you lost. You keep working... even when no one's clapping for you. That's resilience.

Teacher Speak

And the truth is — you are already building it. Every late-night study session, every small comeback, every effort you make when things aren't easy — that is what shapes your strength.

You don't need to have it all figured out. You just need to keep going — one step at a time.

So, the next time you feel stuck, tired, or discouraged, ask yourself — what would Nadia do? Remember her courage and more importantly, remember your own
